Die venis . sexta die Jovis . ano dno . m . cccc . lxxviii .

In nomine domini Amen. Ego benedictus forensis Conspiro et odio vos etiam cum sociis vestris Amicos etiam et cognatos etiam in domo patris ad invicem etiam. Et ego sum captivus per vos et decem et octo milia marcharum de mercibus pro eo quia per vos et fugam capivi in Galatiam Amosum Amos Crethum in quo moraberis in diebus que ego sum nunc ad invicem obligatus. Et ad reverentiam quorundam offensus et per vos capivi etiam donec venieris in die Galatiam. Et per vos sum nunc illa quantitas pecunie que me Ego plus habui dicit Galatiam. Et per vos expensis et per vos in hostium meo tam in personis cum per vos in illa necessitate et contra ipsum.

Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Latin or Old French. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words and phrases being more legible than others. The script appears to be a cursive hand from the late Middle Ages. Some discernible words include "regni", "procurator", "judex", "publicus", "procurator", "judex", "procurator", "judex", "procurator", "judex".

Large, bold, black ink markings at the bottom of the page, possibly representing a signature or a decorative flourish. The markings are stylized and somewhat abstract, with some elements resembling the letters 'H' and 'K'.
